STRIKES DECREASING.

AN INTERVIEW WITH A UNITED STATES LABOR INSPECTOR.

Arbitration the Hest and Chenpest Way of Settling all Labor Difficulties-The N. Y., P. & O. Brakemen Strike Extending-Excitement Among the Miners.

CINCINNATI, March 4 .- Mr. Charles H. Etz, of the United States labor bureau, is in the city, stopping at Hunt's hotel. lie is here for the purpose of investigating the strikes that occurred in this vicinity during the last six mouths of 1880, so that his report will be complete up to the beginning of

"Are you nearly through with Ohiof" was asked of Mr. Etz this morning.

"Yes, so far as I know, but it has been a big job, I originally had Ohio and Indiana, but as yet I have been kept busy in this state."

"Do you find labor well organized in the other parts of the state?"

"As well as could be expected, though I am inclined to think that it has the most perfect organization in Cinemnati, yet Cleveland, Toledo, and Dayton are in good shape in this respect,"

"What is the most extensive strike you have found so far?"
"The Hocking Valley names' strike that lasted about ten months. Every body in this state knows about that."

"Did you flud anything of interest there!" "I found something there that surprised me much, and that was the pleasant and amicable feeling existing between the operators and the miners. The operators speak in the kindest terms of the men and the em-'ployes have no fault to find with the bosses." "Then there is no danger of Instagrationable there?"

"Not at present, anyhow. The feeling could not be better, or the conditions more satisfactory."

"Were there as many strikes in 1886 as in the preceding years?"

"No, not near as many. The heginning of last year was about the turning point, and since then the number of strikes has been slowly but surely decreasing."

"Do you think they are becoming unpopulor with the men who have engaged in them in the past?"

"Yes, arbitration is now tooked upon by both sides as the most satisfactory and by far the cheapest way to settle all difficulties. Strikes have always been an expensive luxury both to the employer and the employe, and one has gained about as much as the other and no more by them."

"What do you think of the new Labor party?" "I am engaged in the government service, and would not like to express any opinion as to that." "What troubles are you investigating here!"

"All of the strikes that occurred between July 1, 1886, and January 1, 1887. The principal of these are the bricklayers' strike of at sammer, and the coopers' strike that &curred only a short time ago.

Superintendent O'Brien, of the road, is now at Youngstown and he telegraphed to all his assistants here: "Do not solicit any yardmen to come back. We are not yet ready to take anyone back, and when we do, we shall select only those we want. Cut off all minecessary expenses."

Chicago, March 4.—The assemblies of the Knights of Labor that have been flying in the face of Grand Master Workman Powderly by giving nid and encouragement to the Anarchists and Socialists, and by usurping the functions of the executive board in the issuing or boyeotts, are anxlously awaiting the return from Philadelpain of General Foreman Richard Grifflths, who is expected to come back armed with arbitrary powers. A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

Truck Walker at Indianapolis.

Indianapolts, Ind., March 4. - Henry Page, a track walker on the Belt road, states that late Saturday night as he was making his usual rounds, and had approached the bridge that crosses White river, near Morris street, his attention was arrested by the rapid approach of a back, driven furiously by two men on the box seat. He withdrew to the side of the road and concented himself. The back stopped near the river bank, when the two men hastily jumped down, opened the hack door and pulled the body of a man out. They dragged him to the river and threw him out as far as they could. Page says he heard the body drop, and then the two men hurriedly returned to the hack and drove away. Page at one notified a deputy sheriff and a coroner. An investigation has been going on quietly ever since. A soft felt hat was yesterday found lodged in some drift wood below the place where the man was dropped into the river. No further developments have occurred to solve the mysterious affair. Page said he was afraid to approach the men at the time, as he thought they might kill him.

LIMESTONE'S

Sound and Sensible Comments on "Kentuckian's" Letter.

Some of the Many Advantages Maysville Offers to Men of Enterprise. "Do Something Now."

Editor Bulle'in: I have read la your issue of Marc'ı ist, a communication from "Kentuckiaa," giving some reasons why Keatucky and Keatucky towns, and especially Maysmeat, business and growth. I heartly concur wl it his views, and hope by some means. our people will be aroused to the Importance of doing something now, to give an impetus to marked. the business prosperly and growth of our city. It will be too late after awbite. Some more active, wide awake progressive city or town will step right in and secure the very advantages and benefits we are cutliled to; and then, as usual, those of our citizens whose the Louisville. Conference Male College, financhil condition was such as to enable then located at Hardinsburg, Ky., the thear to do sumething for themselves and the town, but who did nothing, who walted for somebody clse to do lt, that they might be ben fited at the expense of samebody else, student there at the time. A warmfriendwill go about the streets withing and complaining about the hard times, and the dull times. They are waiting for a boun to strike the town. It will never strike the town with such obstacles as these in the way. The way difference of two or thr e years in their to have a boom here, is to make a boom. That's the way they do it in other places. Why, sir, I am told there are some who are pretty well to do in life, who have made every Governor of Kenturky. Judge Hines dollar they have right here in Maysville, who left yesterday afternoon for Mayslick. Infinitely prefer to have our business done over and roads in broad-fread wagons, rather than be texed to help build a rallroad that would develop our resources and add value to our farias and houses, and lacrease our revenues. Just such as these are drlving our young men aad our working men away from Maysville to seek homes and employment among more active, enterprising, liberal people. Why should our young men and our mechanics be driven away from Maysville? Why should they go to Wichita, Kansas? It is said that 2,000 houses are being built at Wichi.a. Why should not those 2,000 honses be built at Maysville? Has Wichita anything to offer the farmer but tair farming iands and almost impassable mud roads, with the everlasting b'erk, cold winds of winter over its vast prairies of snow. Can Maysville and Mason County offer more than this toour sons and to the stranger seeking a nome? Yea, verily. We can offer them the finest farming land in the world, the best system of superior macadamized roads to be found anywhere, permeating every section of our condty until almost every larmer can travel to and from his home upon a turnplke; the produce of his farm yielding him as good. prices generally, as can be obtained anywhere. Yet, these lands can be purchased at reasonable prices. And what has Maysville to offer the manufacturer and the mechanic, who may desire to come to us? A well-drained, healthy, well-governed city, with a line system of public schools, besides a public filigh School, and a number of superior private schools for young ladles an ! boys. She offers a splendid water works, street raliway, cheap fuel, cheap ilving, cheap gas. She offers many churches and an elegant opera house. She offers a benutl of river plowed by the largest steamers, bearing their burdens of the country's products. She offers a rallway completed, and one soon to be completed that | Thomas Allison $12,500. will put her in direct communication with the East and West. She offers an intelligent, hospituble people. She offers her proximity to the richest and most extensive east, from and thaber fields just east (of us, and she idfers a county which is the nearest one on the Ohio river to said theids capable of abundantly supporting a large, laboring population, and furalishing cheap living to the mething more substantial than this? And, yet, crease will reach ED,000 probably with the next tive years! And why? And why does from all parts our city and county. nat Maysville increase? "Aye, there's the rub,"-and not much "rub," either, when you couge to look at it squarely. Wichita has men who are alive to her interests-fellows who " git up and git,"-who don't sit and walt for somethiag to turn up, but who go to work and help to turn that something np. They say to the mannfacturer: "Come here, we waut you, we'll give you all the ground you want, and we'll give you some money besides to help you, for thereby we are helping ourselves, too." Wichita has eight banks, doing, I am told, business to the amount of probably two mllllon dollars each per annum, and that, too, in a city only a few years oid. Maysville has three banks, doing a business of three to five hundred thousand dollars each per annum, and the town about one hundred years old. Have our banks and bankers done much to build up the town and its business, and thereby bulld up their own business? Not much. It strikes me that if they would display a little more sagacity in this malter, they might help to boom our elty, and at the same time be boomed themselves. "Kentucklan" says that by our linek of enterprise some years 190 Maysville lost the and which stimulate you for ap linur. Swift Iron and Steel Compuny, and lishttend. and then leave you in worse condition ant population of workmen and their lamiiles. Yes, it was not only our lack of enter- interative that will purify your blood, prise, but the cupidity of some of our people start healthy action of liver and killings, who had vacant lots of ground, which that restore your vitality, and give renewed company desired to purchase upon which to erect their buildings, In asking such emmious and outrageons prices for the ground, that, drove them away from us; and now Newport has that large plant with all its attendunt benefits. Newport has her population of 30,-000, with her large manufactories, and is still growing. Maysville manages to ho'd on to her 6,000 or 8,000 population, and bullds no

W. 11, geatlemen, it will be a long time before such policy as that will give growth to the business or pupulation of our city, and in all probability your igts and fiel is will depreciate i value for the want of business and thr ft to sustale the price of real estate. Had you not bet er put your heads together, and agree that you will give manufactu eis a portion of your lots to build upon, to lada e them to come here? It would put money in your rockets to do so. The remainder of your ground would be enhanced In value far more than the whole would be worth without factories; or, il you won't give any of It away, sell it to some of our more public-spirited chilzens at a fair pri e, hat they may give ly to the manufacturer to induce inm to come among us. Is it not time that our lefernal, nonsensical, sulcidai polley of gobbling up a piece of ground at $10 per fort, one wrek, and asking a stranger who desires to build a factory on t. $100 per foot the next week, had stopped? Let us adopt a policy and concert of action that will give our city and county a push onward and upward LIMESTONE.

AMALGAM OF RACES.

SPECULATIVE VIEW OF THE SO-LIDIFICATION OF THE RACES.

Humanity as it May Exist Some Tens of Thousands of Years Hence When All Weakness Shall Have Been Ellmin-

One of the subjects which excites the attention of thinkers is the probable outcome of the commlagliag of races throughout the world. The result is, of course, purely a matter of speculation, as there are no data whatever from which may be deduced an exact coacluslon. There are those who lean to the opinion that la the course of many centuries, all race distinction will disappear, and a human amalgam, homogeneous in its qualities, will take the place of the present interminable

This country has more faterest in this question than any other. It is an enormous reservolr into which are being poured streams from, all the racial sources. The homogeneous amalgam, if ever formed, will crystallize on this continent; and here will be located the ultimate results of race admixture. What will be the nature of this composition? It is not a thing whose occurrence is so near that we have a personal interest in lt; nevertheless, the inspirations of enriosity are such that we cannot help glancing Into the remote future with the hope that we may get a glimpse of the product of the process of distillation. One may not see anything with precision at this distance, but the imagination may discover a condition of things which, it not exact, may at least be characterized by curious qualities.

THE FINAL SOLIDIFICATION.

The believers in the limit solidification of the various races conclude, of course, that the distinctions now prevailing letween white, negro and Indian in this country will be obliterated. The processes of absorption will not only necessarily whoe out these three races us such, but they will include and dispose of the diverse nationalities which ulready, la the presence of German, Irlsh, French, Scandinavian, Spanish, Italian and the like elements, form so large a portion of this country. if such a work shall be done, it will be one of the grandest ever undertaken by nature. Nothing in the labors even of the chemistry which has constructed universes from a few simple gases would be the equal ia languith-le and Importance of this colossal

If the teachings in regard to heredlty are reliable, then we may 'e certain that in the final composition there will be no essential tralts now in existence that will be wanting. In a more attenuated form, but nevertheless existent and tangible, will be a strain of Yankee chrewdness, of British obstinacy, of Italian subtlety, Indian craft, African grossness, German transcendeatalism, French suavity, with possibly a taint of the tastes of the cannibal and something of the coarse gustatory tendencles of the Esquimaux. It is logical, in view of the teachings of modern science to conclude that the stronger of these qualities will prevail, and that while none of them will over become extinct many will become merely rudimentary, modifying to a very limited degree the characteristics of the whole. The fittest will survive, and honce we may frame a guess as to the rough outlines of the compact result.

SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST.

Grouping the more potent of the race qualities which will be likely to survive in a recognizable form, we may construct the man of the far inture as one who has lost the bue of Wednesday, March 9th white which now dominates civilization. The blood of the African will darken the cheek of the coming man until there will come a time when the existence of races of whites will have passed into the regions of the legendary. His will not be the tint of the mulatto, but the result of the spreading on a white ground of a mixture, black, yellow, red, and other darksome hues, and which will be a rich bronze, equally removed from the repellant black and the effeminate paller of the ruling races. Exposed to the desiceative influence of this elimate, he will be thinner than the average man of the continent at this time, and will possess an endurance, a longevity, a healthfulness far above those of the present period. The extent of the life of this man will be far above the century, for in the evolution of qualities the more robust will survive.

He will very largely have increased the site and value of the human brain, and honce will occupy an immeasureably higher intellectual station. The political and social experiments and the mechanical achievements of a period like the present one will seem to hlm-if there shall remain any record of what we have done-as crude and burharous in the extreme. He will have mastered the most important secrets of nature, and, alded by this knowledge, will be able to wield powers and command results which we now would ascribe as the especial property of omries, with the evil, the weakness, of the Berlin, March 4. - The reichstag was epened to-day. The emperor, however, was not present, the speech from the throne betog read. The royal address refers prominently to the pope's attitude toward the government during the recent elections, and expresses gratitude at the benevolent disposition of the holy father. The foreign policy of the empire has been continually directed toward the maintenance of peace, especially with its neighbors. This peace-loving policy will be supported by the reichstag, which, as it is now constituted, expresses the will of the nation, and will put forth the full na-Monal strength against any attack.

The foreign relations of Germany remain when the last reichstag was opened. The emperor is confident that God will bless his efforts made in the interest of peace and for the security of Germany. New sources of revenue and reform in taxation are urged for the consideration of the reichstag.

The Troubles of Ireland. LONDON, March 4.—Sir William Vernou Harcourt in a letter published says: The coubles of Ireland arise from an attempt on the part of the government to enforce rents which the land commission appointed by it has declared the people are unable to pay. The writer quotes the speeches of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach and others, admitting that if Parneil was able to prove the promises of his relief bill, the government was bound to attempt the remedy. The land commission, he asserts, proved that Mr. Parnell was right, yet notwithstanding that fact the government proposed fresh coercion, instead of introducing a bill to deal judicially with rents.

Fusion Fizzied.

DETROIT, Mich., March 4. - The fusion between Democrats and Greenbackers, which has lasted six years, has been ended by the nomination of the straight Democratic ticket at the Democratic convention here. The Greenbackers then nominated a separate ticket. Republicans claim that this split will strengthen their party in this state.
